Sea to shining sea ... and beyond

10.10.2012 | Research, Education, Faculty, Business, Students, Culture and Society, Catholic, Law, Energy and Environment, Hot Topics, Engineering, Science, Campus and Community, International

International, national and local media tell our story year-round. And they turn to University of Dayton experts to discuss everything from the Arab Spring to the 2012 election.

Together, we help people around the world understand current issues and the latest technological and scientific breakthroughs.

In doing so, we advance the University's mission — and share our Catholic, Marianist identity, distinctive curricula and innovative research.

According to the Cision media monitoring service, the University of Dayton was mentioned 1,280 times last year in the top 100 U.S. media markets — not including Dayton.

The Chronicle of Higher Education, Inside Higher Ed, Bloomberg Radio, Fox Business, Forbes, U.S. News & World Report, Bloomberg Businessweek, BizEd magazine and Chicago Tribune, among many, highlighted the University's growing reputation and innovations in higher education.

A few of the highlights are below, but related links take you to a more comprehensive summary, our complete list of media attention from the last academic year and links to the articles on the University of Dayton Delicious page.

--Editorials from our faculty and staff ran in CNN.com four times, McClatchey News Service twice, Commonweal, Reuters, America, The Chronicle of Higher Education, The New York Times and The Philadelphia Inquirer.

--The world's media recognizes Ohio as a hotbed for presidential election politics and frequently sought out our experts. NPR, Catholic News Service, CNN, Los Angeles Times and Agence France Press were among the media talking to our experts.

--We made eight appearances in The New York Times, including one on the front page.

--The University's cutting-edge research and eminent researchers were hot topics. The Chicago Tribune, Woman's Day, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, the syndicated TV show "The Doctors" airing in all 50 states, Reuters, The National Post in Canada, Nature Communications, WIRED in the United Kingdom and outlets in Estonia and Russia were among the media that reported on research efforts.

--As one of America's top Catholic universities, we are sought for our insight on U.S. Catholic and religious issues of the day. USA Today, Inside Higher Ed, Catholic News Service, The Associated Press, The Washington Post, Religion News Service, The Huffington Post, "The Busted Halo" on satellite radio and page one of The New York Times were among the places quoting our religion experts.

--When President Barack Obama, the first sitting U.S. president to visit the University, took in the NCAA men's basketball tournament First Four, it not only made University history but also generated worldwide attention. The tournament and the president's visit resulted in mentions in 155 markets, $1.1 million in free coverage and reached 2 billion people.
